

Two routes to your next level coaching development

Professional Practitioner Diploma in Executive Coaching

Advanced Practitioner Diploma in Executive Coaching

Summary

This virtual programme delivered over six months brings diverse perspectives to your coaching practice broadening your subject knowledge with global insights.

This residential immersive 13 month programme takes you on a deep dive into your own personal development in addition to a more advanced level of practice with a systemic business lens.

Format

Delivered virtually comprising six days of workshops over six months. Supported with peer coaching practice, mentor coaching, pre-recorded webinars, self-study and client practice.

Delivered over four 3-day modules plus assessment day. Supported with peer group learning, mentor coaching, tutorials, group supervision, self-study and client practice.

Core input

Global faculty bring a breadth of diverse perspectives and expertise in subjects including presence, psychological safety, diversity, identity, crossing cultures and Ubuntu Coaching.

The faculty bring a rich knowledge and experience in psychology and systemic thinking. You will deepen your awareness of human behaviour and become far more purposeful in your coaching approach.

Accreditation

This programme will be submitted for ICF accreditation this spring. Subject to approval, you will graduate from an ICF Level 2 programme. Currently the programme provides 73 hours of Continuing Professional Development.

The Advanced Practitioner Diploma is a Level 2 programme and accredited by the ICF for 131 total hours of coach-specific education AND the Global Quality Award (Senior Practitioner level) conferred by the EMCC.

Who suitable for

The April 2024 cohort is exclusively for graduates of AoEC's Practitioner Diploma in Executive Coaching. If you have completed an ICF Level 1 or ACSTH programme with another coach training provider, you may be eligible to join the next cohort.

This programme is suitable for experienced coaches who are working with senior executives and business leaders. You will already have substantial experience of coaching leaders.