

Credibility and reassurance

Further details can be found on the website of each accrediting body:

International Coaching Federation (ICF)
www.coachingfederation.org

European Mentoring and Coaching Council (EMCC)
www.emccglobal.org

Association for Coaching (AC)
www.associationforcoaching.com

Association for Professional Executive Coaching and Supervision (APECS)
www.apecs.org

www.aoec.com

Coach Accreditation

A guide to accrediting bodies

Accreditation is increasingly sought after in the coaching industry – particularly from departments responsible for coaching procurement. With no formal regulation in the industry, there is a need for coaches to demonstrate credibility and provide reassurance. Accreditation provides this.

Types of accreditation

There are two types of accreditation in the coaching profession: accreditation of programmes and accreditation of individual coaches.

Our Diploma programmes are accredited with the International Coaching Federation (ICF), the European Mentoring and Coaching Council (EMCC), and the Association for Coaching (AC).

To become an accredited coach, you will need to apply individually to your chosen professional body. On graduating from one of our Diploma programmes, further work including coaching practice is required to gain individual accreditation. However, having graduated from an accredited programme the process is much simpler. We, the AoEC, also offer individual accreditation to our graduates.

AoEC Accreditation

As a graduate of one of our Diploma programmes, we will have got to know you as a coach, your growing edges and your professional goals. You will know how we work, our commitment to excellence and our desire to support our participants in their professional success.

We want to continue to build on this partnership by offering free individual AoEC accreditation to you for one year, provided the following requirements are met:

- evidence of Professional Indemnity Insurance (not required for internal coaches)
- agreement to abide by the AoEC Code of Ethics

International Coaching Federation (ICF)

US-based global accrediting body

The ICF is the leading global organisation for coaches and coaching. It is dedicated to advancing the coaching profession by setting high standards, providing independent certification and building a worldwide network of trained coaching professionals.'

The ICF has three levels of individual accreditation and credentialing:

1. ACC (Associate Certified Coach)
2. PCC (Professional Certified Coach)
3. MCC (Master Certified Coach)

All AoEC Diploma programmes are accredited by the ICF.

Having graduated from one of our Diploma programmes, the following training requirements will have been fulfilled:

- Practitioner Diploma - 60 Accredited Coach Specific Training Hours (ACSTH) for Associate Certified Coach*
- Advanced Practitioner Diploma - Accredited Coach Training Program (ACTP) for Professional Certified Coach*

The Systemic Team Coaching Diploma provides 121 Accredited Coach Specific Training Hours (ACSTH) towards the requirement for Professional Certified Coach.

*Note that we are in the process of converting our Practitioner Diploma to the new ICF Level 1, and the Advanced Practitioner Diploma to the new ICF Level 2. This will take effect from 2023.

Association for Coaching (AC)

UK-based global accrediting body

The AC is a leading independent, not-for-profit, professional body, dedicated to promoting best practices and raising awareness of standards of coaching worldwide.'

The AC has four levels of individual accreditation:

1. Foundation Executive Coach
2. Executive Coach
3. Professional Executive Coach
4. Master Executive Coach

Our Practitioner Diploma has an Accredited Award in Coach Training status with the AC.

Having graduated with our Practitioner Diploma, the training requirement will have been fulfilled for Foundation Executive Coach. From 2022 Practitioner Diploma graduates are eligible for AC Accelerated Accreditation.

European Mentoring and Coaching Council (EMCC)

Europe-based global accrediting body

The EMCC exists to develop, promote, and set the expectation of best practice in mentoring, coaching, and supervision globally for the benefit of society. Our vision is to be the 'go to' body in mentoring, coaching, and supervision.'

The EMCC has four levels of individual accreditation:

1. Foundation
2. Practitioner
3. Senior Practitioner
4. Master Practitioner

Our Practitioner Diploma and Advanced Practitioner Diploma are both EMCC Global Quality Award (EQA) accredited. Our Systemic Team Coaching Diploma is EMCC Global Team Coaching Quality Award (TCQA) accredited.

Having graduated from one of our Diploma programmes, the following training requirements will have been fulfilled:

- Practitioner Diploma – Practitioner level, EMCC Global Individual Accreditation (EIA)
- Advanced Practitioner Diploma – Senior Practitioner level, EMCC Global Individual Accreditation (EIA)
- Systemic Team Coaching Diploma - Senior Practitioner level, EMCC Global Individual Team Coaching Accreditation (ITCA)

Our Diploma graduates are EQA/TCQA holders and eligible for the fast track to EIA/ITCA.

Association for Professional Executive Coaching and Supervision (APECS)

UK-based accrediting body

'APECS is the top level professional membership body for executive coaching, supervision, and advisory services to corporate organisations. It exists to ensure that in a complex world, executives and their organisations are able to benefit from executive coaching and supervision to deliver ethical and sustainable development globally.'

Our training programmes and training hours will count towards accreditation with APECS.

This is not an exhaustive list of professional coaching bodies.