

The Resilience Accreditation Programme

with Jenny Campbell and Alison Kane

A focused programme for experienced internal coaches and OD practitioners to become accredited in the use of The Resilience Engine models. Includes two workshops, two webinars, individual and group supervision, client work and an accreditation submission demonstrating that the accreditation criteria are met. On passing this, individuals are granted a renewable licence for three years. Successful completion of the programme provides participants with an individual license to use the programme materials within their client or internal organisations, including The Resilience Engine®.

The Resilience Accreditation Programme equips internal organisational development consultants and coaches with the skills and knowledge required to support organisations in the development of Resilience. The programme provides an in depth understanding of The Resilience Dynamic™ and the Resilience Engine®, a transformational model for understanding, creating and developing sustained personal resilience.

This is a fully comprehensive programme which will require participants to engage with the programme over a 6-8 month period.

To be eligible for the three-year accreditation licence each participant must complete all elements of the programme.

Faculty

Jenny Campbell

Jenny is chief executive and lead researcher of The Resilience Engine. She believes that resilience is the foundation for thriving and being at ease, in any walk of life. She is passionate about making life better for people through the simple and deep findings of her resilience research. The Resilience Engine's mission is to make the research findings accessible to all, and so the company has set about crafting online learning guides and toolkits and enabling others to become practitioners of the research. She has authored 'The Resilience Dynamic®' to further enable the understanding and development of resilience in leaders and managers.

Alison Kane

Alison is client services director at the Resilience Engine. She is an executive and leadership coach with a background in the oil industry. She works with leaders and teams across all sectors to transform performance. Alison believes that resilient leaders support resilience in themselves, their followers and organisations, and that resilience makes lives happier, stronger and more productive. In both her coaching work, and in delivering The Resilience Engine models and tools, she is passionate about making resilience real for everyone.

Anne Archer

Anne's passion is to shift perspective in mental health at work. We all deserve to thrive, and her approach is whole person whole life. She has a unique portfolio where she can address people in deep crisis to execs who want a bit more capacity in a full and rich life. This perspective is enabling in how she works with her clients.

About the Resilience Engine

The Resilience Engine believes that everyone deserves to perform well without compromising their wellbeing. This is what resilience delivers. Resilience is the capacity for change. Building resilience means honing the skills of adapting which rely on a healthy mind and body.

It helps organisations embed resilience skills in a straightforward and suitable way. Its approach is built on over ten years of research and experience in the field.
